About Authors

Charles Card studied physics in the USA from 1967–1969 at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, NY, and 1969–1971 at Reed College, Portland, OR, where he received a BA degree in physics. He encountered Jung’s work in his university studies and began to read Jung in depth in 1974. In 1979, he began his studies of the work of von Franz and the collaboration of Jung and Pauli. Presently he is a Senior Scientific Assistant at the Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Victoria, Victoria, BC, Canada, where he is involved in tutorial instruction and preparation of lecture demonstrations.
Address: Charles Card, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Victoria, Elliott Building, 3800 Finnerty Rd., Victoria, BC, V8P 5C2, Canada; email: card@uvic.ca

Erik Davis is currently pursuing a PhD project in the Department of Religious Studies at Rice University, Houston. He is the author of Techarge: Myth, Magic, and Mysticism in the Age of Information (1998), and Nomad Codes: Adventures in Modern Esoterica (2010). His writings and his research relate continental philosophy and comparative religion to pop-cultural and countercultural studies.
Address: Erik Davis, 1336 Willard St. Apt. A, San Francisco, CA 94117, U.S.A.; email: ed8@rice.edu

Ilana Gorban studied literature and language at the University of Sao Paulo and received her MA degree in Applied Theatre from Goldsmiths College, University of London, in 2012. She trained at the International School of Corporeal Mime in London (2003–2006); and in 2007 she founded flamingofeather, a theater company, together with British director and choreographer Simon Rice. Her professional activities in the fields of performing arts and in education extend over Brazil and the UK. She is particularly interested in forging interdisciplinary collaborations to explore the impact of theatre-led projects on mental health.
Address: Ilana Gorban, 59b Uplands Road, London N8 9NH, United Kingdom; email: ilagorban@hotmail.com

Richard P. Jenkins was trained as a social anthropologist at the Queen’s University of Belfast and the University of Cambridge. Then he worked for three years at the SSRC Research Unit on Ethnic Relations, at the University of Aston in Birmingham, before moving to the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University College of Swansea in 1983. He was appointed the Chair in Sociology at the University of Sheffield in 1995. In 2004, he was elected as an Academician of the Academy of Learned Societies in the Social Sciences. The topics he has investigated include the transition to adulthood, ethnicity and racism, nationalism, informal economic activity, the social lives of people with learning difficulties, and modern supernatural and witchcraft beliefs.

Address: Prof. Dr. Richard Jenkins, Department of Sociological Studies, University of Sheffield, Elmfield, Northumberland Road, Sheffield S10 2TU, United Kingdom; email: r.p.jenkins@sheffield.ac.uk

Ina Schmied Knittel studied sociology and political science at the University of Konstanz, Germany, and received her PhD at Freiburg University. She has been a research scientist at the Institute for Frontier Areas of Psychology at Freiburg since 1998. A focus of her interests is on sociological issues in religious studies, including exceptional (spiritual) experiences and recent religious movements.

Address: Dr. Ina Schmied-Knittel, Institute for Frontier Areas of Psychology and Mental Health, Wilhelmstr. 3a, 79098 Freiburg, Germany; email: schmied@igpp.de

Michael Schetsche received a PhD in political science at the University of Bremen and later finished his habilitation in sociology at the same University. He has been lecturer at the Institute for Sociology at the University of Bremen and, since 2003, at Freiburg University. Since 2002 he has been the head of the Department for Cultural Studies and Social Research at the Institute for Frontier Areas of Psychology at Freiburg. His fields of work include sociology of knowledge, sociology of media, sociology of social problems and anomalies, qualitative prognostics, exosociology.

Address: Dr. Michael Schetsche, Institute for Frontier Areas of Psychology and Mental Health, Wilhelmstr. 3a, 79098 Freiburg, Germany; email: schetsche@igpp.de