Welcome to Imprint Academic

Anthony Freeman
Imprint Academic

Imprint Academic is delighted to welcome Mind & Matter as a new addition to our growing list of journals. It will fit especially well alongside the Journal of Consciousness Studies and Cybernetics & Human Knowing, both of which are now in their twelfth year of publication. All our journals are supplied in a printed edition and are also available online via Ingenta. Unlimited online access is free of charge with respect to any journal issue for which an individual or institution has already paid a subscription to the printed edition.

For readers not familiar with our company, we are a small British publishing house run by Keith Sutherland, who founded it some twenty years ago, with the assistance of just two permanent members of staff, myself and Sandra Good. Sandra (sandra@imprint.co.uk) is the journal subscriptions manager and will be pleased to answer any queries relating to orders, payment, and online access. All editorial matters should continue to be addressed to Harald Atmanspacher at IGPP.

In 1999 we began to publish a small number of books in areas related to our journals. Among the hundred or so titles currently in our catalogue are books produced by Mind & Matter’s editor, Harald Atmanspacher, and by Thomas Metzinger, one of the contributors to this issue. A full list of our books and journals is available at www.imprint-academic.com. Any authors with manuscripts they believe might fit our list should make contact with me.

We congratulate the editor and contributors to Mind & Matter on the quality of the first two volumes, and trust that they and their readers will all benefit from our new association.
